

BARNHYSLE/BARNHISEL AND HISLE/HYSELL

FAMILIES OF VIRGINIA

by Carol Constance (Yunker) Boyer

ERRATA PAGE

(Please tip in to my book, Barnhysle/Barnhisel and Hisle/Hysell Families of Virginia, 1997 edition.)

Documents of 1854, recently discovered in Virginia, show that I had misplaced two early H-H men in all editions of this book.

FREDERICK HISLE [was J2-1] was thought to be eldest son of Leonard & Elizabeth Barnhisle [J2] but is now accepted as son of immigrant John Berndhisell [J].

BENJAMIN BARNHISLE/HISLE [was J1-1] was thought to be eldest son of John & Frances Barnhisle [J1] but is now accepted as another son of immigrant John Berndhisell [J].

My apologies for these errors.

My interest in these families from Virginia was an outgrowth of research on Barnhisers, one of my husband's ancestral lines which originated in Pennsylvania. "Barnhisle/Bernheisel" in whatever variant is a name unusual enough to warrant investigation for a possible relationship between the Virginia and Pennsylvania families. No relationship has so far been proven, though it seems probable. However, the data gathered, though incomplete and often unproven, is here presented as an aid to other researchers.

The earliest Barnhisle in Virginia, John, is here considered the probable father of John, Leonard, Thomas, and William. The relationship seems reasonable, although no proof has yet been discovered.

The information in this book came from many people and many sources. Often dates and places varied in different accounts. In these cases, I selected the data used, with alternate data occasionally in parentheses; if there are errors, they are probably mine. I am acutely aware of doubtful relationships in many lines, but hope that future research can resolve these.

Many, many thanks are due to all who contributed family information, particularly Corinne Hisle, of San Jose, Calif.

Lucille Hisle, of Miami, Mo.

Helen Howe, of Charlotte, Mich.

Spencer Hysell, of Kemmerer, Wyo.

Mary Rice, of Dry Fork, W. Va.

Deborah Hisel, of Sierra Vista, Ariz.

Mary Ann Stokes, of Louisville, Ky.

and other members of the Hisle-Hysell Genealogy Group. Several professional genealogists retrieved records in several locales; among these were Joyce Davis & Mrs. Bayne O'Brien.

Any corrections or additions would be very, very welcome.

By 1991, much new Hisle/Hysell material had been gathered from descendants and a few professional researchers. Among the many who generously contributed data are

J. Philip Hysell, of Louisville, Ky.

Percy & Violet Hysell, of Barboursville, W. Va.

O. Marshall Jenkins, of Springfield, Va.

Faye Kennett, of Bowling Green, Ohio

In this third and possibly last edition, I have inserted several Hisle-Hysell daughters into the second and third generations, though I had no real evidence as to parentage. Since they were almost surely from the immigrant, I felt it might be a service to "best-guess" where these women belonged, rather than omit them as in earlier editions.

SOURCES

This work was begun primarily as a personal method of organizing a goodly mass of family group sheets and notes shared by several researchers, so that I would be able to follow various lines. With no thought at that time of later publication, I did not keep track of each researcher's contributions. I returned the early material to the people who had loaned it, and thus am now unable to credit properly the individual contributions for much of the basic material. I must apologize to those who shared so generously.

Generally, birth and death and marriage dates are as contributed, but some were verified and others supplied from abstracts of vital records, where available. No sources for these are given in the text except for occasional death records for which photocopies were obtained. Also I had photocopies of most newspaper obituaries mentioned; a few citations refer to printed abstracts.

Probate and guardianship and other court records were photocopied. Most cited deeds were photocopied from recordings of the deeds in courthouse volumes, except for some few for which printed abstracts were available.

All census records cited were abstracted from microfilms, except for some 1880 and all 1900 and 1910 and 1920 entries; for these I looked only at the Soundex films.

Data with such appended phrases as "... in 1884 record" were usually gleaned from obituaries or probates or deeds for relatives. Information taken from county histories, family histories, and other published works has been acknowledged by brief author-title statements in parentheses within the text. Other types of information are usually from correspondents, with few source statements given. However, occasional handed-down family stories are labelled as such.

These lines are not presented as proven. It is still up to the individual descendant to assemble his own documentation to prove a particular line. This work will aid in such efforts, I hope, even though some relationships are speculative (and are labelled thus). Such aid is, I believe, the most one can expect from family genealogies of this type and extent.

NOTES

Each descendant's number is built up from numbers of his ancestors. For instance, "J1-3" means "3rd child of 1st child of the earliest known ancestor" (who is labelled "J").

The symbol "+" preceding a child's number indicates that more information will be found in the next generation. A "?" preceding any data or number indicates some doubt as to the data or the relationship; the stated information is a best guess from the material available.

Descendants of daughters are not included. Only the daughter's family itself has been written up fully, with brief data on her children and their spouses, if known. For further generations of her family, the reader is directed to works on the husband's family, where such works are known to exist.
